

Your host

Pippa Hayward's interest in wine really took off when she found herself having to create a wine list for Redmond's – the restaurant she opened with her husband Redmond Hayward in Cheltenham in 1986. Under the Hayward's ownership the restaurant earned a Michelin Star and Bottle symbol – for an exceptional wine list – in the Good Food Guide.

Wine has since become Pippa's main passion and she is now a wine educator (putting her teaching qualification to good use at last) and teaches regularly in London for The Wine Education Service as well as devising and delivering bespoke tastings and courses for private clients.

She likes nothing better than sharing her enthusiasm and knowledge of wine in an informal and relaxed way.
